

Caring for an Aging Parent?

Powerful Strategies to Save Time, Money & Your Sanity

Sponsored by Ridgewood Community School

Are you assuming more responsibility for your aging parents? Don't know where to turn? Join this 2-night course to get some support and learn key strategies for: finding the right care and living arrangements; helping parents get their financial lives in order; making sure they have the appropriate estate planning documents (will, living will/health care proxy and power of attorney) before it is too late; knowing what to do in an emergency and having the information you need gathered ahead of time; figuring out if and how Medicaid and Veteran's benefits apply; and balancing their needs with your own emotional needs and responsibilities.

Your instructors for this class will be Amy Harrison, a CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ professional; Amy Fuchs, Elder Care Consultant; Shana Siegel, Certified Elder Law Attorney; and Loren Gelberg-Goff, psychotherapist specializing in taking care of the caregiver.

Time: Wednesdays, October 18th and October 25th from 7-9 p.m.

Location: Ridgewood High School, Rm 205
627 E. Ridgewood Avenue
